An Old Florida Treasure.

Have you longed for a piece of old Florida? A place nostalgic of orange blossoms, giant live oaks, and whispering tall pines? Look no further! This beautiful property in Fort McCoy, Florida is a one-of-kind recreational land treasure, and combines two parcels totaling roughly 152.99+/- acres. Outdoor enthusiasts can enjoy wildlife set among the oak hammocks, pine forests, and cabbage palms. This paradise is just two miles from the Ocklawaha River boat ramp and adjoins Florida Greenways to the Ocklawaha River. This property is privately owned, however, one can enjoy access to hundreds of thousands of acres of public land (Ocala National Forest, state lands, and water management lands).

The property has been well maintained through the years. For the hunter, this property harbors many deer, turkey, as well as other Florida wildlife and bird species.

The Fort McCoy Recreational Ranch is ideally set up to build a home, hunting lodge, or cabin, and can be dually purposed as an estate residence, weekend retreat, or hunting camp.
